Let Literacy Bloom: Cultivating a Love of Reading to Grow Independent Readers Grades 3-8

Join us for an inspiring workshop designed to help educators plant the seeds of lifelong reading habits in their classrooms. This session will highlight how cultivating joyful, authentic reading experiences can lead to empowered, self-directed readers. We'll explore ways to nurture a culture of reading that values student voice, fosters agency, and builds reading stamina over time.

Participants will leave with practical tools and ideas that celebrate reading as a meaningful, personal pursuit — one that thrives when students are trusted to choose books, read for pleasure, and see themselves as readers.

Workshop Highlights:

- Strategies to motivate and engage reluctant readers
- Joyful and authentic reading routines
- Innovative reading trackers that promote reflection
- Approaches to building reading stamina and independence
- Tips for creating a literacy-rich classroom environment
